STATE NEWS.—

The Landmark says: A marriage is to take place in Statesville soon has been pending for twenty years.

Roanoke News.—The Petersburg bridge will be rebuilt. The survey noticed in our last was being made with a view to ascertain the location.

The Editor says: A compositor in that office, Mr. John M. George, set 1,800 ems in one hour last week in solid long primer, from not very well written manuscript. That was extraordinary good work.

Oxford Torch-Light.—Messrs. Currie & Watkins are erecting the largest tobacco warehouse in North Carolina in the town of Henderson, N. C. They will be ready for tobacco about January 10th, 1878.

Speaking of the religious revival in Weidom which has been going on some three or four weeks under the ministry of Dr. C. M. Cook, of the M. E. Church, the Roanoke News says:

"Up to Monday morning upwards of fifty persons had professed conversion, forty had connected themselves with the church, and between twenty-five and thirty had been baptized. Five of these were baptized by immersion."

Southern Home.—On last Thursday the 6th inst., Baxter, a little son of Mr. B. C. Rockwell, of the Advertiser, Alexandria in this country, had cut off his hands so boldly managed by a gun, that the amputation of three fingers was rendered necessary. Neither chloroform nor ether was administered him, and he watched the operation with perfect coolness during the painful interval without flinching or flinching. His nerve and courage upon that occasion are highly spoken of. Dr. Irvine performed the operation for the heroic little sufferer.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

Senator Gordon is proposed as General Southern Commissioner to the Paris Exposition.

There will not be a Radical in the next Georgia Senate, a state of affairs unknown since the year 1868.

The grand jury of Macon county, Ky., recommended that the Legislature re-establish the whipping-post.

Richmond Dispatch.—Colonel M. G. Harmon died suddenly on Monday, while making his way to Richmond, on a train of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad.

The Democrats of the Virginia Legislature have divided into two caucuses, with General W. H. F. Lee as Chairman, and Senator Quesenberry of the other.

A resolution has passed the South Carolina Legislature requiring the speaker and clerks to wear robes, and as a consequence they will hereafter appear in blue silk gowns, like two ritualistic clergymen on a high day.

Col. E. Polk Johnson and W. F. Bassett, of a Louisville newspaper, have obtained local notoriety from the fact that they will each be 53 years old on the 21st inst., each weighs 165 pounds, and are each 6 feet 1 inch in height.

Richmond Dispatch.—The Moffett register promises well in Lexington, East Tennessee, and the 25th inst. last week of its operation, says the Greene. A proportionate yield throughout the State would put more than a million of dollars into the treasury annually.

Lexington, Ky. Press.—The grand jury, it is said, has found about forty indictments against married men of this city for playing poker. They will next attack the church raffles, then the men who throw dice for drinks, and finally bounces whoever draws straws for the oysters.

Savannah (Ga.) News.—As advertised, the wild lands in Gilmer county were sold last Tuesday, and a large crowd was on attendance. The land and forty acres were sold, ranging from three to twenty-six dollars a lot, the total amount paid being $235.75—one hundred and sixty acres of land for three dollars.

The mortality in Richmond for the week ending December 1, was 28. Population of city (estimated), 75,500—white, 44,400, colored, 33,100. Rate of mortality of the population was 18.7 per 1,000 per annum; rate of mortality of white population was 18.8 per 1,000 per annum; rate of mortality of colored population was 26.7 per 1,000 per annum.

The New Orleans Times says that some of the planters of Lowndes county, Miss., held a meeting a few days ago and took steps to have a law passed that will make the obtaining o money or goods under false promise of labor, a penal offense; also a law that will prevent the hiring of any person who has contracted for a specified term of service, until said service is rendered.

The Confederate monument, the erection of which is contemplated by the Memorial Association of Augusta, will be completed and probably dedicated by the next memorial day. It will be seventy feet high, each corner one hundred and twenty-one feet square at the base. The base will be Stone Mountain granite, while the remainder of the monument will be of the finest Italian monumental marble. The statue of a private Confederate soldier will stand on the top of the monument, and statues of Gen. R. E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Gen. T. J. R. Cobb and Gen. W. H. Walker will be placed on pedestals about twenty feet above the base.

CIRCULATION.

The DAILY NEWS has the largest daily circulation and the WEEKLY NEWS has the largest second weekly circulation in the State.

The combined circulation of the DAILY and WEEKLY NEWS is nearly twice as great as any other paper in North Carolina.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

Each subscriber will see plainly printed on the yellow label, on which his name is printed, the date of publication, and the number of the issue, so that he may know in time and avoid losing any copy of his paper, or his paper will cover a favor to receive a copy of his paper.

The New Orleans Times says that some of the planters of Lowndes county, Miss., held a meeting a few days ago and took steps to have a law passed that will make the obtaining o railroad between Raleigh and Rocky Mount; for the finishing up of the W. & L. & Tarboro Railroad would then be a small matter. To build those 40 odd miles, then, is the rub. That they must be some day built, a glance at the map will demonstrate.

No Cause of War.

An analysis of the reports from El Paso is sufficient to convince any dispassionate mind that the bloody affair of last Friday affords no pretext for war with Mexico. It now appears, contrary to the first statements in the public prints emanating from Governor Hubbard, Senator Maxey, and others, that the disturbance as we affirmed on yesterday was a purely local outbreak, and the responsibility for it can not be laid at the door of the Mexican Government. It turns out that was simply an uprising of citizens of El Paso county, Texas; and not, as originally stated, an insurrection combined with an invasion from the Mexican side of the river. In short, it was nothing but a row about some salt.

The confusion about the matter has probably arisen from the fact as set forth by such reliable authority as the Governor of Texas, that the population of the disturbed county consists almost entirely of people of Mexican blood and sympathy." The fact was lost sight of that these "Mexicans" are in reality natives of El Paso, and citizens of Texas. The authorities at Washington, therefore, have a rebellion to crush, and not an invasion to resist.

The massacre of Judge Howard and the two rangers, dwindles into a sort of Texas frolic, which should, of course, and no doubt will, be followed by the proper measure of retribution. So much for the San Elizario fracas.

As to the raids into Texas by Mexican bandits, it is the bounden duty of the government at Washington to adopt the most vigorous measures to prevent their repetition. It is not a bit too soon for Gen. O'Day to stop palavering before investigating committees, and put his carbines and Gatling guns in operation upon the bandits. If need be, the United States troops should pursue the marauding bands into Mexican territory. Then if Mr. Diaz or Mr. Lerdo wish to consider such action an invasion from our side of the river, and resent it by a declaration of war against the United States, then let him do it. Texas is a Southern State; our sympathies naturally gather around the exposed people of her border; and we think they should be protected from robbery and assassination, at all hazards. Peace is a jewel to be prized by the Republic; but security of life and property is a right to be sacredly guarded by all the powers of the nation, if necessary.

The Senate committee to inquire and report upon the condition of affairs between this country and Mexico, has been called to Washington to adopt the most vigorous measures to prevent their repetition. It is not a bit too soon for Gen. O'Day to stop palavering before investigating committees, and put his carbines and Gatling guns in operation upon the bandits. If need be, the United States troops should pursue the marauding bands into Mexican territory. DAILY NEWS

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1877.

THE DAILY NEWS is the best weekly published in North Carolina. It is only $1.00 per year, postage paid, contains some of the most popular news from every quarter of the country, and important advertisements. Always fresh.

Giving and Taking.

Mr. Whittier contributes to the Old South a poem to "Timothy," a Hymn of the third century of our era, who, he says, "had a heart full of love, and an almost Christian conception of God and man," who gives and hides the giving hand, who counts on favor, fame or praise, until the last, when he comes to "wash in the sea and latitudes."

no gives to whom hath not been given, his gift is small, though much indeed is the grass-blade's wild wood seed, which is cast and rich as heaven.

He gives to the world, and to the earth; even, even to the very earth itself, all in the living come.

no brooks above a wrong in thought or deed, but is ready to give, to help, to feed, to comfort with kindness, all round the holy arms as though, no dares to curse the hand that blesses him, knows of a the dearest cost; he loves the world, and holds the holding man's outstretched hand.

the who breaks all laws may still in Saxon's mercy be forgiven, but none can save in earth or heaven, the wretched who answers good in ill.

GENERAL NOTES.

Boston people eat each year about 20,000 barrels, of which the West provides 35,000 to 40,000.

Old Simon Cameron says he told the day at Washington the extra session would be a "hell of a time."

During the present year the United States sent 105,000,000 yards of cotton goods abroad, ten times more than was exported the year before.

An ecclesiastical authority estimates that, in round numbers, there are now in England and Wales 13,500 church benefices, and that their annual net value is $300,000.

The police force of Liverpool, England, is composed of twelve hundred men, of an average height of 5 feet 9 inches, and average service of nine years and seven months.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Prince Bismarck also starts into the war in a plow wood. "It is God's will," says Milan, both he and the Czar seem to know about "God's will" than most people.

The Congregational Church of Wall Street decided that the use of wine at the communion table tends to produce intemperance. Wine is hereafter to be used.

Philadelphia Times: Blaine and Conkling are to meet in a friendly interview after twelve years of political estrangement that refused recognition of each other. Who will say that the Hayes nomination policy is a failure now?

Henry IV, at the surrender of Chartres, received a deputation at the gates. The spokesman said: "Sir, the city submits to your Majesty as much by divine as by Roman law." He replied: "You may as well add, by canon law, too."

Philadelphia Times: It may be consoling to Senator Patterson and other restless carpet-baggers to know that Canon Farwell died after a recent service in Westminster Abbey, "there is no such thing as a world of worm and flame."

Nearly all the distinguished Californiaans of the day are said to be self-educated men, regardless of college training. Senator Sargent is one example. Governor Irwin another. Mayor Bryant, of San Francisco, another. And Messrs. Flood, Mackay, Fair, Jones and Sharon may be added to the list.

For some years past the great garrison and naval towns of England have been placed under the operation of what is called the Contagious Diseases Act, and the result has been that the number of men in the army incapacitated by disease fell in such places from 70 per 1,000 in 1867 to 29 per 1,000 in 1875.

The Cincinnati Enquirer attributes all business failures, from whatever cause, to the resumption policy, and on Saturday headed the telegraphic report of the failure of the Bank of America. "Wholly stalemate of once prosperous business men, who point their fleshless fingers at Sherman as the cause of the untimely taking-off."

The London Times: The rise of Osman Pasha, the Turkish army was rapid. He was known in the Crimean war at the commencement of his military career, and his services at Crete subsequently gained for him some of the highest honors the Turkish Empire bestows upon its soldiers. During the present war he has been leading the Turkish army throughout the world, and his fortunes have been watched with more interest than those of any other general on either side. There seem to have been some traits in his character very similar to those of Stonewall Jackson. He was enthusiastic in the cause he supported, strongly imbued with religious fervor, energetic, plain and direct in all his words and actions and greatly beloved by his soldiers.

Picture of Conkling.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. Mr. Rose Conkling is a base demagogue. Disguised as a gentleman, he has been all his life a low political trickster. The companion of gentlemen, he has been the champion and confidant of the worst. When he was ready to sell his party, this winter, he was ready to crush the man whom his cowardice and treachery were not able to keep out of the Presidency. He is not like Morton, a rough malignant, who, warned into partisanship, possessed a certain barbarous severity; but is a cold, calculating, treacherous scoundrel of the vicious classes. He is a good actor. He has an educated facility in word-mongery. But he is an insolent peacock, eccentrically gifted with a voice. And this is the man whom a few Democrats would elevate to leadership in the Senate at the expense of the Republicans. He may be, has at least done something toward the readjustment of the lost sectional balance and the restoration of nationality and the national spirit in every part of the country.

Ridgway & Co., Under a suspension of the law, the Senate passed a bill repealing the law of last session for the protection of sheep, etc., in the county of Lee. Mr. Folks said so popular was the dog law that the member of the last House, who had it passed, was forced to leave the county and go to Texas.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Blankets are scarce in Granville, we guess, as there are so many couples "clubbing" for cold weather.

—Let every head of a family, who has not hitherto done so, go to the book store to-day and buy his wife a cookery book.

—Eggs fell to 15 cents in market yesterday, which means an addition of 25 per cent to the Christmas mogg drinks.

—Many a suspicious looking bundle and package goes from the toy shops and fancy stores now to private residences, after the children are asleep at night.

—The examination of the Treasurer of the State yesterday, by the committee, disclosed a fact, that during the month of November, 1857, J. C. Tate entered 11,565 acres of vacant lands in the county of Burke, at twelve and a half cents per acre.

—The Treasurer yesterday issued drummer's licenses to Joseph P. Winston & Co., of Richmond, Va., and A. D. Hopping's Son & Griffith of New York.

License was also issued to John R. Long & Co., of Baltimore, for the sale of Long's prepared chemicals for coloring.

—In hunting news items yesterday we stepped into the office of Secretary of State, as usual, determined, if possible, to have a local from there, of some sort. We found Capt. Dudley, Clerk, managing among many old records in search of answers to the hundreds of questions daily asked of the department; but as these records were generally about a hundred years old, we concluded it could not be reckoned as news, so we left disappointed.

—A correspondent writes us as follows in regard to the man whose name heads this article. We insert the letter and the name it gives, information in regard to many rumors that have been circulating concerning the man Mooringham.

Andrew Mooringham, and his family arrived at H. Griffis's yesterday, safe and sound. He trials and adventures have been so far as to bring him here. After he passed through the fiery ordeal of his trial, and was acquitted, he started to see his wife and young children, whom he had not seen since the day Mr. Seawall was killed. This, it will be remembered, was in the month of April. He often waited on promptly, courteously and satisfactorily. A hearty welcome to all.
